Low bid on berm tops million mark

Business is brisk, tax shows

Bay business is brisk?

Boch

Just last month, the gross business volume in the city alone ran to $748,000.

That's based on the 1 per cent sales tax rebate from the State Tax Commission for the month ending June 15.

The check from Jackson was for $7,480.00, against $2,235.68 the previous June—a increase of $1,244.32.

For the nine months of the current fiscal year which began last October, the total sales tax rebate was $60,939.50. That compares with $50,848.34 for the nine months of the previous year.

City Commissioner J. Cyril Glover noted this to mean that a $10,000 increase in the nine months—on an average of $1,000 a month. At 1 per cent, that's a little better than a $100,000 gain per month in business volume, he observed.

The May 15 tax check which came in while Glover was ill was for $4,621.33 against $4,510.83 in May, 1965.

The commissioner pointed out that the sales tax money is on transactions within the corporate limits of Bay St. Louis only. Waveland is separate. And the figure does not include sales at the Johnson Bay St. Louis shopping center at Blue Meadow Road and U.S. 90 which is outside the city.

The apparent low bid for the sand berm to be constructed along the seawall from Clearmont Harbor to Ballantine Street is $1,031,603.50.

That figure was submitted yesterday to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Mobile by Ferrell Construction Co. of Memphis, Tenn. The government estimate of the job was $994,436.50 without allowance for profit.

It appears that Ferrell will get the job as soon as figures are checked out. The contract is expected to be awarded within the week and work will be pushed in anticipation of this year's hurricane season.

The Corps recommended the berm as the best temporary protection to the seawall after the ravages of Hurricane Betsy last Sept. 10. The job calls for dredging in one million cubic yards of sand.

John J. Kennedy, construction chief for the Corps at Mississippi Test Facility whose office will supervise the berm building, has called a meeting with Robert Puryear, Ferrell's project manager, for 10 a.m. today.

They'll establish a date for the pre-construction conference and iron out such aspects as payment installments, public relations, labor policy, how many dredges will be used and where work will start—at the Clearmont or Bay St. Louis end or in between.

Work probably will begin soon after the Fourth of July weekend and it may be December before the job is finished.

Both the Corps of Engineers and the contractor will establish offices on the beachfront with space for storage of gas, oil, timber pilings, dredge pipes and the like. Telephones and power facilities will be needed as well as adequate space for a work yard, Kennedy said he expects to check into using Jackson Ridge.

Tentatively L.W. Tourant of Waveland, who is in the Corps construction office here, has been assigned full time to supervise the berm.

Besides dredging in the sand, the job calls for extending storm drains out into the Mississippi Sound. This phase accounts for a great deal of the work involved, Kennedy noted.

Because of the size of some of the drains, six will be spanned by steel beams.

GE to cut 225 from MTF force

In line with reduced support requirements placed on General Electric Co., Mississippi Test Facility Support Dept., in fiscal year 1967, beginning July 1, it is expected on site employment totals will decrease by approximately 225 persons in the near future.

Malcolm J. MacGregor, manager of relations for GE, made the official announcement of his company's intention to phase down its work force yesterday.

"The reduction in employment will be made over a period of several weeks. Every effort will be made to place those affected in other positions to cushion the economic impact on the employees and their families," MacGregor said.

The work force cut was projected in the initial stages of construction and comes as a result of the completion of ground support installations, technical systems and other such work phases.

Construction workers have been decreasing almost daily as projects are wound up and eventual population figures on site will settle at about 2,600. Of these about 1,500 will be General Electric employees.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said Wednesday, "It is anticipated the operational force in addition to a small NASA nucleus will eventually level off at approximately 2,600."

"There has been no reduction in static testing requirements at Mississippi Test Facility nor any change in the facility's mission or the number of rocket stages to be flight certified by testing at MTF."

TC&Y robbed for 2nd time in month

An as yet undetermined amount in cash and checks was taken from TC&Y Family Center, Sunday night or early Monday, in the second such robbery of the store in a little over one month.

The crime, a duplicate of one May 14, was accomplished by identical means. Burglars cut a hole in the roof, lowered themselves to the floor by means of a rope and burned the door of a safe with an oxy-acetylene torch. The torch and the rope were left at the scene.

Sheriff Sylvan J. Linder, Jr., assisted in his investigation by Chief Deputy Eido Dapreo and Warren Hoxey of Gulfport police dept., said the theft was discovered by Morris Steen, assistant manager, when he opened the store at 8:30 a.m. Monday.

Another theft was reported last Thursday by John Kocher, owner of Target Oil Co.,

US 90, who said two cases of lubricating oil and a carton of soft drinks were taken from his establishment sometime Wednesday night. Entry was effected by breaking a lock on the front door.

Two outboard motors have been recovered by Sheriff Linder and Dapreo. An 18-horsepower Johnson, stolen from a boat owned by Mrs. W.G. McArthur of Pearlborough on June 10, was found in Piquette on Friday by Linder and Pearl River County Deputy Quitman Perry.

Another motor reported stolen on Saturday was located Monday in Shoreline Park by Dapreo, after Zack Blackwell called saying he had found a 40-horsepower Evinrude in a wooded area between U.S. 90 and Kiln Road. The motor is the property of Louis Dietrich of New Orleans.

Cuevas wins Jaycee presidential award

Gene Cuevas, E.J. Moreau, Jack Campbell, Donald Larch and Charles Carter, Jr., seated and standing at the Jaycee award ceremony at the Gulf Palace Restaurant.

Frank Alexander, former Long Beach city judge and Democratic nominee for chancery judge, addressed the group on the responsibilities of citizenship, particularly with respect to voting. He received briefly the function of chancery court.

Andre Arceneaux was master of ceremonies and Rev. Charles Johnson of Christ Episcopal Church gave the opening and closing prayers.

Cuevas took the presidential award. The honor was for the Hallway early vote. Key man prize went to Campbell while Larch received the park p.u. award for the activation program.

Moreau was cited as the outstanding committee chairman for his work on the Junior Miss pageant. The blue ribbon award for signing up five new members went to Carter who also received a special plaque as rotating president of the Mississippi Jaycees. Jaycees of the month citizens were awarded Dick Thomas, Cuevas and Larch.

Carter as state president installed Bill Richards as new president, reported on the year's activities. Mike Moreau introduced the guest speaker. Also on the program were Don Martin of Columbia, state president-elect, and George Schaeffer of Gulfport, area vice president-elect.

Liquor vote date may be July 23, '66

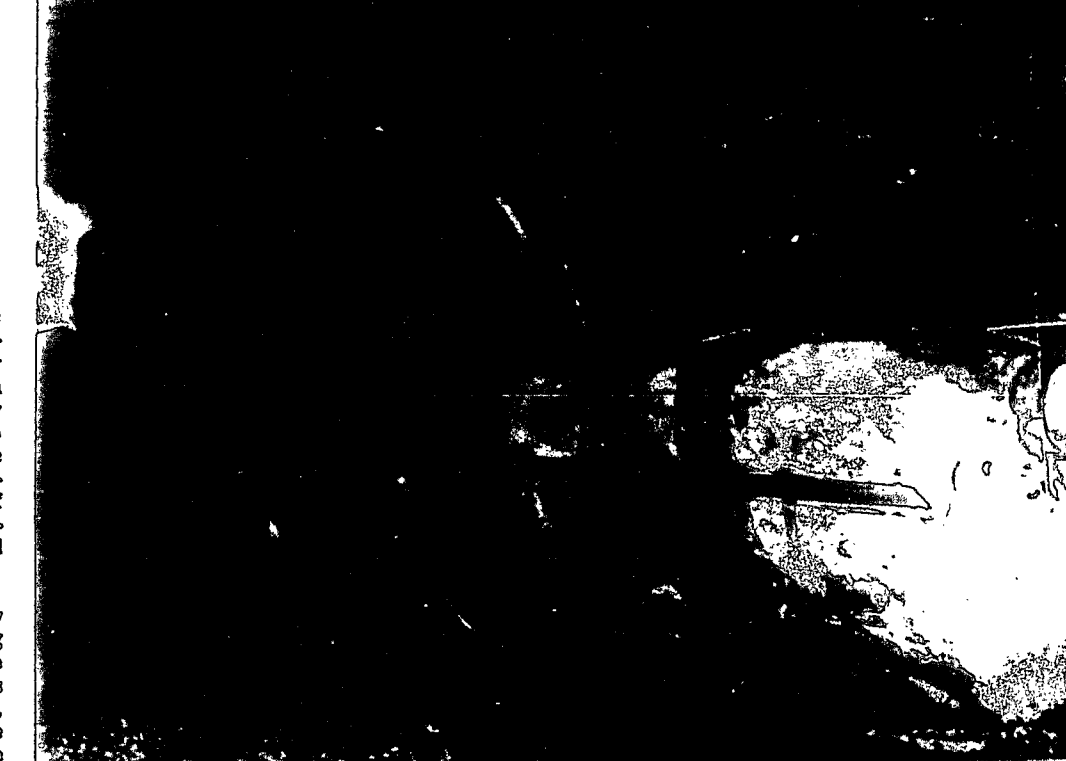

Sunday, July 23, is probably going to be the date for the local option referendum on liquor.

Ruby Griffin, attorney for the board of supervisors, advised them at Monday's meeting that Friday, July 22, would be the earliest date an election could be called. It was agreed that a Saturday vote would tend to draw more people to the polls.

Supervisors will meet Tuesday, July 5, and are expected at that time to formally receive the petition for an election to legalize liquor in Hancock County under the new state law which becomes effective July 1.

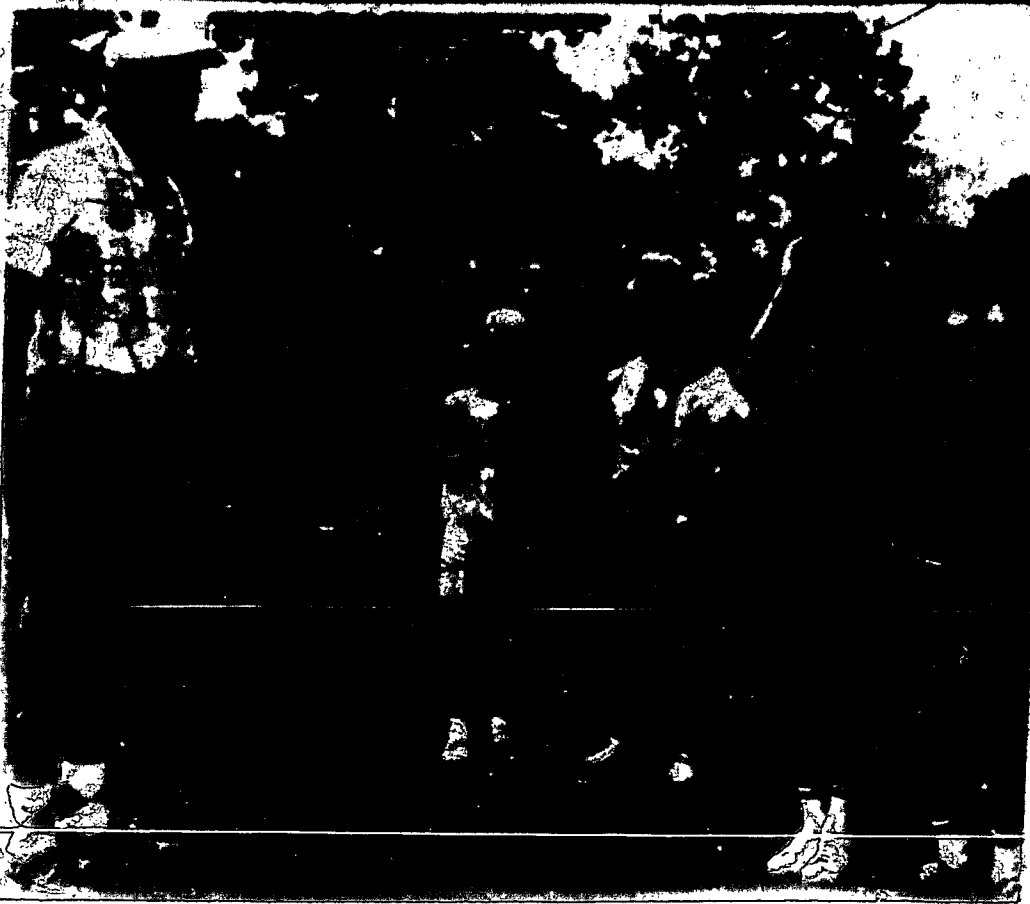

Notices of the election must be published three times in a local newspaper and the vote may be as early as 15 days after the first publication. Because local papers publish on Thursday, that would require publication on July 7, 14 and 21. First day available after that date would be Friday, July 22.

Prohibition holding a referendum in this county was circulated at the polls at the June 7 Democratic primary and will cover the required 1,500 signatures appear to have been secured. The petitioners are now awaiting acceptance by the supervisors as soon as they can legally do so.

Low bid accepted on Ansley Road job

Hess Construction Co. of Gulfport was awarded the contract by the board of supervisors Monday to build the 4,420-mile stretch of the Ansley Road from where the pavement now ends to U.S. 90.

The Hess firm was low bidder on the job. Its price was $1,000,000, plus 5% on the contract over the highway department's estimate of $1,000,000.

B. L. Brooks, district engineer, advised that funds were available to handle the project and that the board of supervisors had approved the project.

The project involves 4,420 miles of roadway and .021 of bridge. Federal funds are estimated for the job total $65,100 with $139,900 from the state. The $205,000 allows about 5 per cent for contingencies.

Other bidders on the road were H. E. Wilson of Long Beach at $240,340.79 and Yates and Peterson of Jackson at $217,973. Eight firms had taken out specifications but five did not return bids.

Supervisors declined to go along with Sheriff Sylvan J. Lechner, Jr.'s, recommendation to give Oliver H. (Sonny) Mitchell of Pearllington one-fourth time off his jail sentence for good behavior. Dean contended the man should serve the full two months of his sentence which ends July 16, rather than be released July 1. Attorney Rube Griffin advised that the board was within its rights to refuse since the State Supreme Court has said such action to invading the province of the governor. However, the legislature has never repealed the law and one-fourth of a prisoner's time is frequently forgiven by supervisors.

George Luchik appeared to request the board to do something about dogs biting people since his daughter, Sarah, had been bitten twice the other day. The sheriff noted there have been about 15 such cases in the last three months with one of his daughters being bitten recently.

Securing a tranquillizer gun for the sheriff's office was discussed but no decision was ever reached. Such equipment would enable the county to round up strays and hold them the required five days before disposing of them if unclaimed. Griffin noted that dogs couldn't simply be shot or it immediately becomes a $500 animal and the one doing the shooting is liable for damages.

Inspection of Jackson County's port development scheduled for July 1 by the supervisors and port and harbor commission was moved up to next Tuesday. Jackson County people had advised they would like to be able to entertain the Hancock delegation as they would like after July 1 when the new state liquor law goes into effect.

Conference re-assigns ministers

All three Methodist ministers now serving in Hancock County were re-assigned to their present parishes at the closing session of the 154th Mississippi Methodist Conference in Jackson last Friday.

They include Rev. A. Lamar Martin to Main Street Church, Bay St. Louis; Rev. L. F. Bolinger to Clarksburg Harbor, Clarksburg; and Rev. Percy Hatch to Pearllington.

Rev. Earl W. Granberry also was re-assigned for his third year of Southern District supervision.

Rev. Dale Lyons of Clarksburg, formerly at Clarksburg Harbor, was sent to Bilal Bay Church.

Court to survey on fowl law

The validity of the city's ordinance forbidding keeping hares, dogs and cats, etc., within the corporate limits won't be ruled on for another week at least.

City Judge Joseph DeWitt continued the hearing on changes filed by Charles O. Perkins against Frank T. Ellis on a survey can be made to determine whether Ellis' livecock lives in or out of Bay St. Louis.

During the court session last Thursday night, the judge postponed the hearing to make the survey and continued the case to June 30.

The case involves property located on Webb Avenue which is close to the city line.

Since enforcement of Ordinance 155, the judge requested a survey of the property to determine whether the livecock lives in or out of the city.

Specifications call for dredging in order to a depth of about half a foot from the top of the scowall. It will extend out level for some 50 feet and then slope gently to the water, running out about 125 feet in most places. The grade will drop one foot every 25 feet.

Five other firms bid on the project. Carlson Construction Co. of Houston, Tex., at $1,059,344.40 and Hyde Construction of Jackson and Gulfport at $1,055,744.00.

Perrell had two construction contracts at MTF and still maintains its trailer-office on the site.

The term is to be financed through federal Bayside district funds under the Office of Emergency Planning. The same agency paid for the beach cleanup which the Corps of Engineers also supervised.

The Federal Bureau of Public Roads is the agency which will have the final say on restoring the beachfront road. That work is not expected to start until the term is completed.

The MTF cut...

MTF, the A-2, is already operational and has successfully tested the second stage, S-1.

The S-1-C stand and the second S-1 stand A-1 will be completed by approximately the first of next year.

MTF became operational several weeks ago with the first full duration firing of the Saturn-Apollo second stage. Reduction in stress has been anticipated since the early days of the NASA testing when the site preparation, construction, technical systems installation, activation leading to operational status and support requirements required all.

Counting activation and operation personnel now on base, but not construction personnel, population count is now about 3,500 or about 900 more than when manned by operations personnel only.

Being, manufacturers of the S-1-C component will increase personnel before arrival of its first stage for testing late this year but this increase has been allowed for in the 2,600 figure.

Chamber to study west county area

Quarterly general membership meeting of Hancock County Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for either July 12 or 14. Director Ames Kargason told the organization's board Monday night. The program is expected to focus on the Pearllington area with Louis Pizzo, New Orleans planning consultant, as speaker. The meeting will be a dinner one, possibly without charge to those attending, and will be held at Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

President Wilson Webb reported that an updated report on Hancock County had been forwarded to the office of Overall Economic Development Program, Washington. This action was taken in order to keep the county eligible for federal assistance under the program. So far no reply has been received.

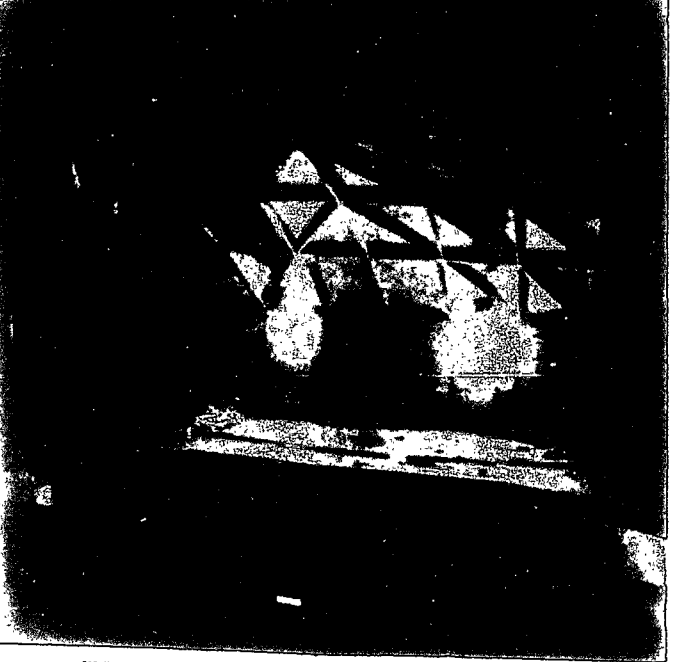

Mrs. Wayne Ducomb reported that boats towing water skiers were making navigation of Jordan River above McLean's bridge dangerous and asked if there was some way to restrict the water use above that point. Secretary Caroline Kiefer said directed to find out what governmental unit had jurisdiction.

The board voted without dissent to recommend that Bay St. Louis' Commission Council invite against George Connel Construction Co. any possible contract in its contract for future to install the new water main on Main. Powell Glass, Jr., who made the motion, explained that the construction company had been fit to remove its equipment from Bay St. Louis for several

W'land Methodists sign for new church

Waveland Methodist Church got the go-ahead signal Tuesday night from the district superintendent, Rev. Ed Grubbs, to proceed with construction of its new home.

The superintendent called a special quarterly conference of the congregation for 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, July 5, to carry out the formal resolutions authorizing the building committee to sign the contract with T.L. Thompson of Pass Christian, contractor.

Canon Morson, building chairman, Henry Orls and F. J. Jones and the pastor, Rev. L.J. Bollegar, met with Mr. Grubbs at his home to outline the construction plan. Thompson has told the committee that if work starts right away, the congregation can worship in the new sanctuary by early October.

The new church building—32 by 62 feet—will be of concrete block with terra cotta. It will be erected on the present site, facing Veterans Lane with its right side along Central Avenue. The present quarters will be converted into a Sunday school and fellowship hall, and connected with the new part by a breezeway.

The structure will almost double the seating capacity of the present sanctuary and will enable the church to use the 18 pews given to it when Loggown Methodist Church was dismantled to make way for Mississippi Test Facility. It will contain a pastor's study, nursery, kitchen and rest rooms in addition to the sanctuary.

Waveland Methodist Church was organized 11 years ago. The core of the present building has been added to several times since it was erected. Estimated cost of the new building including air conditioning and central heating is reported in the neighborhood of $20,000.

7-hour search finds missing boy Monday

Nocturnal perturbations are not recommended by Bobby Coleman, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. G.M. Coleman of Nicholson Avenue.

This was his decision after pulling an escaping and hiking routine that kept him up late and caused no end of commotion on Monday.

Sent to his room for committing a misdemeanor, at about 3 p.m. he gathered a collection of his belongings into a pile, slung them over his shoulder, jumped out the window and started up the highway on the road to fame and fortune.

Missed shortly after by his mother, who called the sheriff, Bobby eventually managed to get as far as Horne's Restaurant where he was found hiding 7 hours later by Chief Deputy Sheriff Ed DePreo and James Travira of the Civil Defense.

His mother, who is expecting her fourth child, said Tuesday she wished to thank all who took part in the search including the sheriff's department, highway patrol, fish and game personnel, forestry dept., civil defense, the horse back riders and the many neighbors whose names she did not know.

"I especially want to thank Sylvan Ladner, Jr., Chester Favre, Mrs. Betty Younger Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Harman Lott and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kramer and their daughter, Kathy, for their encouragement and assistance," she said.

Go forth, young man

... we can't use you here

Is this the word to our young people - able and beloved - when they've finished school and are ready to start making their own living?

Too often it is, in the smaller communities like ours.

Why don't we have more job opportunities and more business opportunities right here, so that more of our sons and daughters can establish their homes and be happy and prosperous here at home?

It's partly circumstance. Partly the natural limitations of the economy of our area. Partly because we haven't been quite aggressive or enterprising enough to build and grow more.

But it's also partly because many of us have let ourselves get into the habit of spending too much of our money somewhere else.

Every dollar that we spend away from home is a dollar less to circulate among us and to account for 2 or 3 or more dollars of added trade volume as it moves from hand to hand.

Keeping more of this easily available trade volume at home is one way by which we could create and sustain more local opportunities for our young people. And for ourselves.
